GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN TODAY'S VOTING IN THIS CITY

City Races Seem To Eclipse All Others At Local Polls—Voting Is Very Slow Because of Three Ballots.

Probably more interest is shown in Tuesday's election in Maysville than in any previous election for at least four years. The polls are crowded and the election officers have been kept very busy all day long.

Because of there being three ballots the voters are very slow in the booths and many are kept waiting in line in front of the polling places. It is thought that there will be much confusion in the city and the school board ballot and indications are that there is much "scratching" being done at all of the polls.

Greatest interest seems to be centered in the city fights at the Maysville polling places. The councilman race seems to eclipse everything else in point of interest.

There was no disorder reported in the city and reports from the county are to the effect that everything is moving along smoothly with no indication of any trouble whatsoever in any of the races. It is expected that because of the indicated "scratching" and the complication in the city races that much time will be consumed in counting the ballots this afternoon and the final reports are not expected until late in the evening.

BEWARE! INDIANS ARE ON THE TRAIL TO MAYSVILLE.

"Before the White Man Came," a spectacular Indian romance of the days before civilization is the special attraction at the Pastime Wednesday. The cast is made up entirely of full-blooded Indians. Not a white man or woman in the entire cast. It is the screen's most unique attraction, taken with the cooperation of the U. S. Government and is historically correct in every detail. Every school student is especially invited to see this picture, as it is very educational as well as entertaining.

R. Kirk, J. B. Furlong and Thos. D. Slattery as sureties on bond. In this case a jury recently "broke" the will and an appeal was taken but this settlement will bring the whole affair to a close.

$80,000 STEAMER WILL BE BUILT FOR OHIO RIVER TRADE

Greene Line Lets Contract for New Steel Hull Steamer for the Huntington-Cincinnati Trade.

A new type steel-hull river steamer will be plying between Cincinnati and Huntington, W. Va., in a few months, Mrs. Gordon C. Greene, wife of Captain Gordon C. Greene, owner of the Greene Line steamers, announced Monday. The cost will be approximately $80,000.

Mrs. Greene said that her husband had gone to Pt. Pleasant to let the contract for the new steamer. Although Mrs. Greene had not received word from her husband that the deal had been closed, a dispatch from Gallop, Ohio, said that the contract had been let to a company at Pt. Pleasant, Ohio. The Marietta Manufacturing Company received the contract, according to Mrs. Greene.

It is believed that the new steamer, which will be named the Tom Greene, in honor of Captain Greene's son, will be the first boat with a steel hull to be used in the Ohio River trade. Mrs. Greene said that neither she nor her husband had heard of any boat of its type being used on the Ohio River. Mrs. Greene has taken an interest in her husband's work for a number of years and in his absence frequently acts as Captain of one of his boats. Captain Greene operates the Greenwood, Tacoma, "Chris" Greene and the Chilo.

The new steamer will be 200 feet long and 38 feet wide, with a capacity of about 500 tons. There will be 50 staterooms, and equal attention will be given to passenger and freight cargoes between Cincinnati and Huntington. The boat will go up the river to Huntington in one day and return the next day.

According to Mrs. Greene it will be constructed of steel to the boiler deck and will be unsinkable. Airtight compartments will be built which will hold the boat above water for a time longer than it would take to remove passengers and cargo.

Mrs. Greene said that her husband had been contemplating the construction of a new steamer for some time, but that he had held off during the war because of prices and after the war because of unfavorable business conditions. Work will be begun on the boat immediately.

A PLOT TO STEAL WHISKY FALLS THROUGH

Thirty Men in Automobiles Capture Distillery Guard But Through Fear Leave Plant.

A band of thirty men, in five automobiles and two trucks, attempted to make a raid on the E. J. Curley distillery at Camp Nelson, Jessamine county, shortly after midnight Monday according to a report received at the office of Prohibition Director Sam Collins.

The attack, however, was frustrated. The bandits captured one of the guards but were apparently afraid to enter the distillery building because they were unable to discover the whereabouts of the other guards stationed there.

The bandits attempted to make the one guard they had captured tell where the other men were hidden, according to a telephone message from Nicholasville Monday afternoon, but he refused to give them the information.

This guard was put into one of the trucks and driven to within a mile of Nicholasville, and when he still displayed any knowledge of the whereabouts of the other guards, he was taken back to the distillery and released.

All the wires leading into the distillery were cut before the raid was attempted. There were four guards stationed to watch the big quantity of liquor stored there.

The guard who was captured and afterwards released by the bandits, is quoted as saying that the bandits had told him that they "had failed once, but would be back later."

TWO NEWPORT PASTORS SUE STATE'S ATTORNEY.

Newport, Ky., Nov. 8. — Suits for $5,000 charging "damages to their characters" were filed in the Campbell Circuit Court Monday by the Rev. E. R. Overly, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. W. B. Harvey, pastor of the First Baptist Church, against Lawrence J. Diskin, Commonwealth's Attorney. The suits charge that Mr. Diskin caused to have printed a pamphlet in which the defendant assailed the characters of the ministers. Mr. Diskin said the suits were filed "for political purposes."

The various committees of the American Legion now have the matter all in hand and will rush everything through so that there will not be the least hitch in plans when the big fair opens on next Tuesday.

TRUSTIES STOP PRISON ESCAPE OF MANY CONVICTS

Great Dash for Liberty at Penitentiary Is Foiled By Trustees In the Engine Room of Plant.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 8. — Four convicts, three of whom have previously escaped from the Kentucky State Reformatory here, attempted to break out of prison Sunday night, after they had charged the engine room and turned out all of the lights in the penitentiary. Failure of the attempt was due according to Superintendent T. V. Bastin, to trustees, who dashed into the engine room and turned on the lights again before the men could break the lock on the stockade gate.

The men were Irvin Anderson, received June 29, 1918, from Louisville, to serve three sentences—one of eight years for robbery, one of ten years for robbery and one of life for willful murder.

John B. Wiseman, received July 8, 1920, from Louisville, to serve eight years for robbery.

W. T. Jones, alias Thomas Barnes, received May 6, 1921, to serve ten years for robbery in Louisville.

Leo Golins, received December 20, 1919, from Boone county, to serve two years and six months for housebreaking.

In a statement Monday Superintendent Bastin said that the outbreak occurred at 3:35 men, about 200 of them while, were filling out of the prison chapel after having completed organization of a "pure speech league" and pledging themselves from the use of profanity and vulgarity.

Bastin found a home-made knife in the power house Monday, apparently dropped by one of the men.

SOCIAL WORKERS' CONFERENCE

The program of the conference of social workers recently held in Lexington was interesting throughout, and the meeting a successful one. The address of Mr. Owen Lovejoy, of New York, was of particular importance because of his long experience as a social worker and his reputation as an authority upon all the subjects which were discussed.

The vital part of Mr. Lovejoy's address was concerned with education. He laid down the thesis that education is fundamental because the child is fundamental. There is no escape from that logic. The child, at least in all modern Christian nations, has been "set in the midst," and its interests have become central. Society is, in fact, organized about the child and every true civilization may be tested by its attitude toward child-life.

The progress of the race depends almost solely upon the proper culture of the children of today. They are the future. To shape them to a finer mold, to save them from ignorance and prejudice, to elevate them to a higher moral plane, to fix in their minds nobler ideals than have prevailed, and to equip them better for the conquest of the world than any other generation has been equipped, is the only way in which the race can take a single step forward.

Mr. Lovejoy emphasized the truth that our present system of education fails in two directions: it is neither universal nor adequate. There are nearly six million illiterates above the age of ten. There are eight million rural children, children living in the country proper or in small towns, only five per cent of whom pass through the high school, while the percentage in the cities is twenty-five per cent. We are spending forty dollars upon the education of the city child and but twenty-four dollars on his country cousin. The former is in school 180 days each year, while the latter has but 137 days of schooling out of the 365 days of the year.

Moreover, education is more or less superficial in both cases. Too many leave school, even after passing through the entire grade and high school course, with but a smattering of knowledge, knowing a little about many things but possessing a bare minimum of sound and accurate information about some things. Above all, there is the neglect of fundamentals in favor of many "fads." English is scarcely taught at all. Grammar and rhetoric are slighted along the entire course of study, and more serious still is the one greater desideratum is apparently ignored—the power to think clearly and accurately.

The time is coming when we shall wake up to a realization of these things and insist upon a reorganization of our school system and a new emphasis upon the matters which are most vital.—Lexington Leader.

SACRED REDS

Frederick A. Parmenter and Alessandro Bernadelli were shot dead at South Braintree, Mass. April 25, 1920, while defending a shoe factory payroll in their charge. It was broad daylight. The robbers escaped in an automobile. Two of them, Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, naturalized Italians, were tried for murder in the first degree in the summer of 1921. The case shown in selecting a jury may be judged from the fact that out of a venire of 500 only seven jurors were accepted. The trial was fair. Representatives of the Italian government sat through it, as did representatives of Italian newspapers of Boston and New York and of certain radical societies, deeply concerned in the defendants, who are extreme radicals.

The defendants had alert and able lawyers. The judge's charge was eminently impartial. The indignation manifested and manifested against it in Europe seems to arise in part from a forged quotation, but is suspected to have been fomented originally by two Communist comrades of the defendants. One comrade, himself suspected of complicity in the murders, managed to escape to Europe. The other was deported to the government. The jury found a verdict of murder in the first degree. The judge granted the defendants until November 1 to file exceptions. On July 20 a motion for a new trial was filed. At Cambridge, on October 22, a date for a hearing of the motion was set by Judge Thayer, who presided at the trial, the counsel having been made to agree upon a day. A fat find is being raised by the domestic Reds.—New York Times.

WHY THE BAMBINO COMES IN

If Babe Ruth is coming back from the warpath to the reservation it is not entirely, we suspect, because he has been overruled by High Commissioner Landis. A greater force than the Judge has been at work on the Bambino. This is the combination, formed about this time every year, of Jack Frost and football.

It is easy to believe that Ruth and his associate barnstormers ran into bad business. Baseball went into winter quarters with the last putout of the world series. Of course the Stove League is all ways in session. Its hardy members convene even when there is three feet of snow outside the store window and explain why Pinaud did not bat well and why Burns is not as great a fielder as Delehanty used to be.

But the Stove League is an intelligent group. It does not pay large admission fees to see barnstormers even when they include such famed individuals as Ruth and Mousel. The people who keep the turnstiles hot have switched their attention to football. The box scores are put away in euphor until the training season of the big league baseball players starts in the South.

The pigskin oval is on the throne and the horsehide globe is in exile for the winter. It is strange that a psychologist so eminent as the Bambino did not discover this before he dug up the hatchet and defied the Judge.—New York Herald.

Fort Wayne Sentinel—And don't forget this. High taxes are here to stay until this country has recovered from the blight of Wilsonism.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

Uncle Ted Sees Hope For Real Agreement at Conference in November.

"Yes, and I'll just bet that the mail man has a letter for us," said Ruth. "Gee!" said Jack, "it would be nice, wouldn't it to have a nice long letter from Uncle Ted to read by the fire. I've been cold ever since we went down to the river."

It was Saturday and Jack had been up to his old tricks of doing the one thing that his mother refused to let him do—this was going down to the river after the weather turned cold.

"You'll get it, all right," said Ruth. "If mother finds out. No wonder you're cold getting your feet all wet in that icy water."

"I know I shouldn't have done it," replied Jack. "But I won't do it any more and if you'll be good and not tell mother this once, we will sit in front of the fire while I dry my shoes and stockings and we can play games."

"We can do better than that for here comes the mailman and I'll bet he has a letter," was Ruth's exclamation as she rushed down the steps to meet Uncle Sam's messenger.

"Here it is, here it is," she called, as she ran up the steps with a tone envelope. "Now let's read it quick."

So they sat in front of the big open fire and Jack began to letter:

"Dearest Kildies: Uncle Ted hopes that you are both well and happy and that you are very good children. You must be good to your mother for you know Uncle Ted always finds out sooner or later. I am having a wonderful visit in Washington and I only wish you could be with me. Even now the city shows marked signs of the big event to start on November 11, when the representatives of the big countries meet here to the conference which we hope will result in cutting down armaments and lessening the chances of war for the future. With the German, Austrian and Hungarian peace treaties out of the way and with active work in progress toward the proclamation, and appointment of ambassadors, and resuming of diplomatic relations, the thoughts of the State Department can be turned to the work of the conference with nothing else to worry them.

"The first to arrive in connection with this conference arrived on Sunday, October 23, when the first of the Japanese delegation came from San Francisco where they landed several days before from their boat. In this delegation were Vice Admiral Kato and General Tanaka and several aides who will play an important part in the conference. Prince Tokogawa, who heads the Japanese delegation will arrive soon with Admiral Tomaburo Kato another delegate. The third big delegate from Japan is Baron Shidehara, who is already in Washington as ambassador from his country.

"There are many people who feel that this conference is a foolish thing because they think it will end the same as the Paris peace conference and the world club plan. This can not be, children, because President Harding has made it plain, as far back as last July when he sent out the first invitation, that complete disarmament is impossible and we can be sure that he will do nothing and has nothing in mind except action that is practical.

As President Harding said in his invitation of August 11—'Productive labor is staggering under an economic burden too heavy to be borne unless the present vast public expenditures are greatly reduced. It is idle to look for stability or the assurance of social justice, or the security of peace, while wasteful and unproductive outlays deplete effort of his just reward and defeat the reasonable expectation of progress.'

"So you see, children, the only way to even hope for halting these ever increasing costs for armaments for the countries most largely concerned to get together and find some basis upon which to agree where to stop building ships, guns, etc.

"When you see these men who are already in Washington, such men as Admiral Beatty of England, Gen. Jacques of Belgium, Gen. Diaz of Italy, and Marshal Foch of France, men whose business is based upon war—when you see them here with an earnest desire to help bring about a cutting down of arms and an agreement to help toward world peace, at least to a certain degree, you feel that the fellow who thinks this conference a joke is a joke himself. In other words President Harding has called the nations together at the right time to talk about the right subject. He is not assuming to tell them what to do, for example, will bargain to the Pacific and Far East where the situation is most grave between Japan and China. He has asked them to come and talk it all over as men, men representing their countries and as men who, like himself, feel that war is horrible and that any practical step to help reduce its chances should be taken at once.

"China, which has much at stake, feels very happy over the prospects. Through her minister in Washington she replied to the invitation, saying among other things—'This conference at Washington called by the President of the United States for the promotion of peace, cannot but contribute in a large measure to the accomplishment of results that will enable the people of the world to enjoy prosperity and happiness and obtain permanent release from the calamities of war. Japan was just as strong in her reply as were the other powers.

"Another vital subject to be taken up will be the control of news and ghastly means of warfare. The world will not soon forget that Germany was the first to use poison gas and it is to be part of the work of this conference to control the use of this and worse weapons.

"All in all, children, I find a spirit of hope throughout our National Capital, both from Americans and foreigners and I know that practical steps toward peace will be taken when these men meet on November 11. It may mean many misunderstandings, but in the end a settlement will be reached to make it more difficult for nations to fly at each other's throats whenever they disagree. I will be home again soon to tell you more but I must stop now and go to bed. Be good children.

"With lots of love,
"YOUR UNCLE TED."

New York Letter

New York. — Who remembers the days when they called them "rainy daisies" if skirts escaped the floor by full three inches? Twenty-five years ago, some time even before the advent of those daring "daisies" the "Short Skirt Club" was formed in New York, with hygiene as the motto. The other day, the club, whose cause for existence has been so drastically taken away from it, gave a luncheon for the sake of old memories and in honor of Miss Anne Matthews, Democratic candidate for registrar. Maybe there is some cause and effect between the change in styles and change in political status while made it especially fitting.

In these days of so many military and navy heroes in the city, there is excuse for the hesitancy which even native New Yorkers are feeling in addressing the recipient persons who stalk about the lobbies of the larger hotels. "I haven't asked directions or given orders about having some one paged for two weeks," explained one guest. "I'm never sure whether they are servants or officers of a foreign army or navy. I don't take any chances; I just wait on myself."

The Community Service headquarters here has sent word to all of its workers throughout the country urging them to help in any possible way the work of the National Council of Women in its plans for country-wide song services on Armistice Day, November 11. Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt have been asked by the Council to address the big central meeting in Philadelphia that night, and equally interesting plans have been made for other parts of the country. Mrs. Philip North Moore, the president of the Council, and Mrs. David Allen Campbell, Chairman of Community Singing, express themselves as splendidly satisfied with the response from all parts of the nation to the appeal for the celebration of that day with an appropriate program given orders about having some one paged for two weeks," explained one Another comedy of youth has come to town to cheer us in the gray and foggy month of November, and season of what seems at times to a steady theater-gore to be a shade too much of "realism" of the dreary sort. It is "Golden Days," with Helen Hayes in the leading role, and if that combination of title and star alone fall to spell blitheness, one has indeed a desolate soul. As a matter of fact, in addition to these attractions, it is well-written and well-acted throughout.

The store detectives are back on the job in earnest after a comparatively easy summer. Fashions probably make as much difference to the difficulties of their task as they do to their customers. "It was simple enough last season," one of them explains. "Clothes were undraped and without much spare parking place for stolen goods. The new sleeves are going to be our trouble now. Next to a knitting bag and a muff, nothing makes life happier for a shoplifter than full and trailing sleeves. Oh, yes, we have to watch the fashions as closely as a mannequin. And there are hard days for us ahead this winter."

After having been divorced for seven years, Mrs. Marguerite Martin McElhiney and Glandstone McElhiney, were remarried the other day. It seems as though this time there had been plenty of time for contemplation before taking any rash step.

LUCY JEANNE PRICE.

TRUE, NEW, NO—LOVE.

"Mother" Love.

Motion picture studios lured one mother away from her daughter, according to the story brought out in the arrest of a woman in New York City recently. She is the wife of an officer on a United States Shipping Board vessel. When her husband left port a few months ago, she sold the furniture of their apartment, gave up the lease, and took her five-months old daughter to the home of friends. She left the little girl there on the plea that she was looking for work and would call for the baby in a few days. When she had not returned in three months a complaint was made against her and the police began a search for her. After the search had continued for three months she was arrested on Broadway and will now be forced to care for her child.

Wedding Ring Good Here.

In France at some of the watering places the jewelers are having a run on them for wedding rings. One of them was interested enough to question a young American girl, who was buying a wedding ring, as to the propriety of the girl buying the ring.

"Oh, but I don't want to use it for getting married," was her reply. "I merely want to get into the gambling 'casino' with it."

Further questioning brought out the fact that young girls are barred from the Casino, but when they show wedding rings are permitted to enter. The fact that the crop of brides are very young did not escape the notice of the guard, but he shrugged his shoulders, when questioned, and answered:

"We can't force them to furnish a marriage certificate with the wedding ring, can we?"

—NY—
"Tied" Love.

A Dallas wife appealed to the police of that Texas city for protection from her husband. She states that he ties her wrist to his wrist and her ankle to his ankle every night before they retire. She says he is fearful lest she steal away from him and as he is insanely jealous of her he takes this method of making certain of keeping her.

Asks $50,000 for Love.

After a courtship of six years a New York City attorney wed another than the one to whom he had been engaged. Now he must answer a breach of promise suit for $50,000. The girl claims he proposed to her while he was a law student and they were to be married when he was able to support her. They were about to wed last year, when he said he was called away on business and that he would see her the following week. A few days later she learned he was on his honeymoon with another.

True Love's Course.

With the bridegroom under arrest as a kidnapper and the bride at home with her parents, Goldie Pinklestein of Cortland, N. Y., is bewailing her fate and claims that although she is only 14 she is entitled to have a husband as well as an 18-year-old girl. The bridegroom, Frank Cerio, took her from her home to New Jersey and married her there but was arrested shortly after the ceremony on the complaint of the girl's parents.

—NY—
Old Man's Love.

Eleanor A. Clark, 23 years old, who lives near Poughkeepsie, New York, thought it a good thing to give up telephone operating to become the housekeeper of Edward H. Clark, 76 years old. Later she married him and says being an "old man's darling" is not all she expected it to be. She is seeking her freedom on delinquency in her act that her husband gave her $30 a month to run a big house on, and that although he is wealthy he forced her to do all the work. In addition to this she claims her husband was jealous of her and locked her in her room on many occasions. She also states that he made her use the cellar floor for a refrigerator. When him placed on it became mouldy he told her to improve the ham, made her scrape off the mould, cook the ham and eat it.

—NY—
The justice who is trying the case made the comment: "There should be a law passed that all these old men who marry young women should have guardians appointed for them."

Sue Dead Love's Estate.

A marriage license taken out in Salem, Mass., over thirty years ago, which was never used, will be part of the evidence submitted in the suit brought by a woman shoe-worker in Danvers, Mass., against the estate of her fiancé, who died last year. She asks $20,000 damages for the failure to marry he ran delinquency that she has been "keeping company" since in the early '80's up to the time he died last December.

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Maysville resident has withstood the sternest of all tests. Mrs. M. Holliday, 221 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I have been greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills and I have reason to recommend them. At times my back has become lame and ached just over my kidneys. My kidneys were irregular in action and I was dizzy. When ever I have used Doan's Kidney Pills I always get relief from these complaints. I certainly think them a good reliable remedy. I always get Doan's at Wood & Son's Drug Store."

The above statement was given November 16, 1918, and on November 22, 1920, Mrs. Holliday said: "I am glad to say my kidneys have given me no trouble since using Doan's Kidney Pills four years ago. My general health has been good. I gladly renew the statement I gave recommending Doan's at that time."

Price 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Holliday had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

MINISTER BADLY WOUNDED; PISTOL SAVED HIS LIFE.

Oliver Hill. — Rev. John Porter, of Elliottsville, was shot in the side with a charge from a shotgun. Marshall Adkins, a neighbor, is accused of firing the shot, according to word from there. An estrangement had taken place between Adkins and his wife, and she had moved into a house owned by the minister. It is alleged that Adkins, who surrendered and was released under a bond of $1,000, was behind a fodder shock when the minister went to the house. A pistol and scabbard at his belt probably saved the life of the preacher as these stopped a part of the charge which might have inflicted a wound immediately fatal.

LOUISVILLE CANDIDATE ARRESTED IN A WAR CLUB ROW

Democratic Candidate for Mayor of Louisville and Sheriff of Jefferson County Arrested by Police.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8. — W. Overton Harris, Democratic nominee for mayor of Louisville, started election day early as a prisoner with a ride from a leading hotel to police headquarters in a patrol wagon. With Mr. Harris on the ride was Dr. H. E. Meehling, Democratic nominee for sheriff of Jefferson county, and nine other men. Mr. Harris was slated at police headquarters on charges of disorderly conduct, and with interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Mr. Meehling was charged with disorderly conduct.

Late last night, in sequel to the seizure of several hundred hickory "war clubs," several policemen under Captain Ed Larkin went to the hotel to arrest men against whom they said they had "information" that the men had been brought to the city to intimidate voters today. William Bosler, manager of the hotel, remonstrated with the officers, it is said, and was placed under arrest. Joseph Bosler and W. Ray Bosler, employees at the hotel, also were arrested.

At police headquarters James Dixon, a reporter, who had been sent there to investigate, was arrested. He was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting an officer and conspiring to defraud in election. All were released under bond.

Paul Burlingame, Republican, the chairman of the Board of Safety, in a statement last night said that he had had information that the Democratic party was importing men to be used Tuesday in intimidating voters in the election.

TAX REVISION BILL IS PASSED.

Washington, Nov. 8. — Lower federal taxes were a step nearer reality today as the result of passage of the tax revision bill by the Senate.

While most of the country slept, the Senate plodded away on the measure and passed it at 1:45 a. m. today.

The vote was 38 to 14, with 3 Republicans, Moses, La Follette and Norris voting against it.

The measure now goes to conference with the House.

PROBE IS MADE INTO DEATH OF NEWPORT GIRL

Fayette County Grand Jury Begins Investigation of Miss Louise Rainey's Death at Hotel.

A probe into the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Dorothy Rainey, 27, of Newport, Ky., who was killed when she fell to the street from the fifth floor of the Lafayette Hotel, at Lexington, shortly after midnight, October 25, was begun by the Fayette county grand jury yesterday.

A number of witnesses appeared at the court house Monday in response to summonses from the grand jury and were questioned. No statement could be obtained from the foreman or any members of the grand jury concerning the investigation. The witnesses summoned, however, were those who had been with Miss Rainey on the night she fell to her death or who had been with her the previous afternoon.

The day following Miss Rainey's death a coroner's jury returned a verdict declaring that the young woman had come to her death "from injuries sustained by accidentally falling from a window in the Lafayette Hotel."

Shortly after Miss Rainey was picked up on the sidewalk and rushed to the hospital Carl Wiedemann, Cincinnati, son of George Wiedemann, president of the Wiedemann Brewing Company, who was in the young woman's room at the hotel at the time, told police she had jumped from the window, having become despondent.

The next day before the coroner's jury he declared that she had been sitting in the window and accidentally fell out.

Miss Rainey was the daughter of Dr. Louise Rainey of Newport, and was regarded as one of the most beautiful girls in the state. Wiedemann declared that he had stopped at the young woman's room to tell her good night when she took the plunge that resulted in her death.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Siefert Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pottsville, Pa. — "I suffered with female trouble for four or five years and was very irregular. I was not fit to do my work at times and took medicine from a doctor and got no benefit. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and took it and got all right. I gained twenty pounds or more and recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial." — Mrs. SALLIE SIEFERT, 313 W. Fourth Street, Pottsville, Pa.

The everyday life of many housewives is a continual struggle with weakness and pain. There is nothing more wearing than the ceaseless round of household duties and they become doubly hard when some female trouble makes every bone and muscle ache, and nerves all on edge.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Siefert did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
